MISS STINSON TELLS WHY WOMEN SHOULD MAKE THE BEST FLYERS

Miss Katherine Stinson, here shown at the wheel, probably thinks and acts more rapidly than any man aviator. From hands and feet to the brain—along courses indicated by dotted lines—sensory impressions and motor impulses travel more rapidly in woman than in man, due to her higher nerve year-up. This is one big reason why women are destined forair supremacy, she says.

(By Katherine Stinson.)

Miss Katherine Stinson, a "chit of a girl," only 22, recently broke the American nonstop aviation record for both women and men and set up a new world's record for a flight by a woman by flying 610 miles from San Diego to San Francisco, Cal., in nine hours. Miss Stinson became an aviatrix in order to earn money to train herself as a concert planist. She says she would rather be a song-bird-singing through her fingers on the ivory keys-that the eagle's mate. She wants to complete her musical studies in Europe. She has written exclusively for The News a series of three articles, of which this is the first, on why women make greater filers than men and how other girls can follow her example and become queens of the air.—Editor's Note.)

Only a little dust in the carburctor. It was a fine bit of symbolism which sent Mother Goose, the first sky-rider, into the blue on a broom.

Science says that a woman's sensory impressions are transformed into mo-tor impulses more rapidly than man's; that her mind works by short-cuts to reliable conclusions.

This means closer co-ordination between brain and eyes, and hands and feet manipulating the controls, giving a big advantage when split seconds may count for life or death,

I am never conscious of reasoning as a man reasons, step by step, while soaring. My decisions are impulsive. That they are reliable is testified to by six years of flying without a esrious mishap. And I think I'm typically feminine

Patience is another cardinal virtue of aviation. Lack of it has written much of the profession's tragedy. Here a woman also excels the average man. That, together with her regard for detail, makes her an excellent mechanic, once her talents are thus di-

VANDY SEEKING GAME WITH TECH NEXT YEAR

Georgia Tech has called off negotiations seeking a game with Rutgers in New York for Oct. 19 of next season. Pourparlers of the two institutions have been unable to agree upon guar-antees and other considerations, and Frank Freeman, representing the Golden Tornado, has dropped the ven-

Vanderbilt has offered to play Tech in Atlanta on the open date, but the Commodores have demanded such an enormous guarantee that Dr. J. B. Crenshaw, athletic director at the Georgia School of Technology, has stated that he will not meet it. Counter proposals have been made, and it seems likely that Tech will invade Nashville or the Commodores will agree to appear in the Georgia city.

The failure of Georgia Tech to land the game with Rutgers will be a disappointment to the southern fans who wanted to impress the New York followers of the gridiron with the strength of this section, but it has paved the way for two big games in

It is almost certain that Georgia Tech and Pittsburg, the two most famous teams in the country today, will clash in the Smoky City.

CARDINAL CHIEF LOVES HIS ROGERS

A few days ago Branch Rickey, the facetious president of the St. Louis Cardinals, was in a humorous mood and decided to tell the world just what and decided to tell the world just what he would take for his bright shining star, Rogers Hornsby.

To Chicago the magnanimous Rickey offered Hornsby for $100,000 and Pitchers Grover Alexander and Jim Vaughn.

To New York he consented to trade Hornsby for a cash consideration (amount unknown) and players Ficther Kauff, Burns and Schupp.

of course these offers were not made in earnest. It was just Rickey's way of telling that Hornsby was not for of telling that Hornsby was not for sale at any price which would be considered reasonably by anyone else. But there was something to think about in the two offers and it dates back several years in baseball.

Along about 1908 the New York Giants paid Indianapolis something like $12,500 for Rube Marquard. The baseball world sat up in aston-ishment. Marquard was the highest

Larry Chappelle was the next to come

This was the greatest deal in base-ball until Charley Weeghman came along this fall and bought Alexander and Killefer for a price estimated at from $75,000 to $80,000, although in the meantime Tris Speaker was sold by Boston to Cleveland for a price said to equal that paid for Collins.

Is there a limit? Probably not so long as men in ba ball are willing to pay money for ball-players who will give them a pen-nant winning team.

The only thing improbable about Rickey's offer is that he should ask for valuble players in addition to a lot of coin. The coin—that is any amount within the wildest kind of reason—probably would be forthcoming if the player was wanted badly enough, but the man who is after a championship will not trade his good

ST. LOUIS-NEW ORLEANS BARGE LINE EARLY PLAN

St. Louis, Jan. 7.—Predictions that a St. Louis-New Orleans barge line would be in operation on the Mississippi river within eight months was made today by James E. Smith, president of the Mississippi Valley Waterways association, on ais return from Washington, where he conferred with Secretary McAdoo and President Wilson. The barge line plan involves the expenditure of about $12,000.000 in the building of 200 steam barges and sixteen towboats. The use of such a fleet, it is claimed, would release more than 12,000 freight cars and many locomotives.

Next winter, the same quality, if you can get it, will cost considerably more.

You know that our Government will require more and more woolen fabrics as the army grows bigger. Uncle Sam is already recommending the use of cotton and wool mixtures for clothing.
